

Aircraft Rescue and Fire Fighting

Immediate Emergency Response

Aircraft Rescue and Fire Fighting (ARFF) is the specialized emergency response service required at Part 139 certificated airports to protect passengers, crews, and aircraft. ARFF personnel are trained to handle everything from fuel spills to aircraft evacuation.

Jacks of All Trades

At Alaska's rural Part 139 airports, the ARFF crew is made up of the same individuals responsible for maintenance, repairs, snow clearing, inspections, wildlife hazing, and every other aspect of daily operations. These dedicated staff members receive more than 160 hours of official training each year to keep their skills sharp across all responsibilities.

Life safety is our primary responsibility... I always tell people, you know, you're never going to be ready for the big event, but you can certainly be prepared for the big event. —Bob Lee, ARFF Instructor

Scan the QR Code or visit www.alaskaasp.com/Videos.aspx
to learn more.

Project Contacts

Becca Douglas, CM, Project Manager

Alaska Department of Transportation & Public Facilities
907.269.0728 | rebecca.douglas@alaska.gov

Edgar Tinajero, PE, RESPEC Project Manager

RESPEC Company, LLC
907.931.6712 x1899 | edgar.tinajero@respec.com

Annette Lapowski, PE, PMP, B2Gnow Project Manager

B2Gnow
727.556.0990 x1025 | annette.lapowski@b2gnow.com

Megan Flory, Public Involvement Lead

RESPEC Company, LLC
907.931.6447 | megan.flory@respec.com

The preparation of this document was supported in part with financial assistance through the Airport Improvement Program from the Federal Aviation Administration (AIP 3-02-0000-032-2023) as provided under Title 49 USC § 47104. The contents do not necessarily reflect the official views or policy of the FAA. Acceptance of this report by the FAA does not in any way constitute a commitment on the part of the United States to participate in any development depicted therein, nor does it indicate that the proposed development is environmentally acceptable in accordance with appropriate public laws.